The Atlanta Historic Preservation Center is a historic home and museum in Atlanta, Georgia, United States. The property was listed on the National Register of Historic Places on October 26, 1986. The first historically recognized property in Atlanta, the house was built in 1859, and it is the oldest surviving building in Atlanta that is still a private residence. The house is a single-story brick building with a full-length gallery, and is located at 139 Ponce de Leon Avenue in Atlanta's Sweet Auburn Historic District. The house is one of the only surviving antebellum houses in Atlanta and was declared a National Historic Landmark in 1967. Atlanta Historic Preservation Center opened as the Augusta Street Confederate Meeting House in 1859. The members of the Southern Cotton Association were based in the house during the antebellum period. In 1867, the house was renamed for its first owner, Honorable William Harper, one of the most prosperous businessmen in Atlanta. Reverend John Crowell, pastor of the former Church of the Primitive Baptist Society, lived in the home after the Civil War. During his tenure, Crowell formed the Atlanta Baptist Female College. Since 1866, the Atlanta Baptist Female College operated out of the home. In 1875, Honorable William T. Ryan, president of the Atlanta and Georgia Western Railway, moved into the home, and the house served as his family residence until his death in 1886. The Ryan house, the Ryan-Sawyer House, the Myers House, the North Place, and the South Place are collectively called the Atlanta University Campus Historic District. The property is located in a residential section of downtown Atlanta, and it is within walking distance of many of Atlanta's museums and historical sites. The homes are located in the Sweet Auburn Historic District, which is known for its historic homes and businesses, and Atlanta's Underground Railroad. Conclusion : I think that is the first time that I saw a Telugu movie in the original language instead of dubbed into Tamil or English. In my opinion, the movie was a.Ebay offers the Honda Wave Similar to mr.boatmo, I was at 'German' Kelly's last night and saw the Honda Wave for a price. It was $7500 OTD. I told Kelly, "That's a nice price on it", but also, "It'll be gone by this afternoon". I told her that if she doesn't sell it, I'll buy it. I have a Honda dealer here but don't like what he says about this Wave. He says the dealer's are "crappy" on them. He also says that the Wave is really built for Calif. The dealer here only builds the 'basic' model of this Wave, about 1500 lbs. I don't know, but I think the Wave that this dealer has is heavier. I know of a couple of Wave's that I've seen in the States that are much heavier than the 1500 lbs. Weight wise, I like the Wave. Has anyone seen the ones in the States? Any feedback? Stay safe and stay legal!

The effects of human salivary agglutinin on the oral and colonic mucosa in dogs: a pilot study. Human salivary agglutinin (S-50) administered to dogs directly into the oral and colonic tract had no acute adverse effects on the colonic mucosa but did cause marked mucosal damage in the oral mucosa. The peak effect occurred at 60 min (mean mucosal erosions in the oral mucosa of 6/8 dogs and in the colon of 2/8 dogs) and was significantly less at 90 min (2/6 dogs with oral erosions and 1/8 dogs with colonic erosions). The mucosal damage was associated with anti-S-50 antibody development in all dogs.
